We thank you so much for your cooperation in these matters.

As in years past, the Room Displays were all outstanding, with much creativity and time consuming thought put into each. We had many displays this year. There were 5 categories from which to choose, all one color, maker, pattern, theme and rarities.

This years' winners are:

CATEGORY	WINNERS
COLOR .....	Norene Duran A. G. & Sue Magan
PATTERN .....	Elvis Randall Ronnie Schwentorus
RARITIES .....	Eugene Cox Tom & Sharon Mordini
MAKER .....	Todd & Susan Kuwitzky Marnen & Betty Robertson
THEME .....	Jerry & Carol Curtis Craig & Brenda Kuckelburg

I would like to thank everyone who had a Room Display and for the hard work that the judges did. Picking all of these winners was difficult to do, as we are all winners for sharing our fine glass with each other.

SHARLA PETERS,
ROOM DISPLAY CHAIRMAN

THE MARIGOLD FLOWER MEDALLION TUMBLER

This unique and very interesting Carnival Glass tumbler is called Flower Medallion. This pattern can be found in Kamm book 5, page 147, but no mention is made of the maker of this pattern. It is also shown in the McCain pattern glass primer, but it too, does not mention the maker.

The tumbler is of standard size being just a little over 4" high. It is 3" wide at the top with a base diameter of 2¼". The base glass is of a light marigold color. The iridescence is more of the flashed on type, but is radiant and very nice. It is quite similar to the iridescence used on the Chain & Stars, Fans & Sydney tumblers. The tumbler bulges out some at the waist. It flares out slightly at both the top and base. The bottom of the base is covered with an elaborate rayed figure with a quarter-sized raised circle in the middle that is filled with fine rays. Outside of this circle are many small faceted diamonds that extend out to the edge of the tumbler. The body of the tumbler has four distinct arches that overlap. These arches are made up of wide bevelled bands of hexagonal buttons, stars and other tiny figures. In the center of each arch is a kite shaped bevelled figure, and inside this is a five-petaled flower with foliage below. The flowers are hard to identify, but look to be a species of the lily family. The background of the pattern contains 24 slightly concaved flutes.

We have seen this pattern many times in crystal pieces at antique shows and shops, but this is the first one we have seen with iridescence. I have asked many of the dealers as to the maker of this pattern, but none of them knew who made it.

UPDATE: While we wrote about this rare Carnival Glass tumbler in the Pictorial Pattern Parade Series of the October, 1983 H.O.A.C.G.A. Bulletin, it has never been included in our tumbler glass series. Therefore; we are going to include it here. To the best of our knowledge, it is still the only Carnival Glass tumbler that has ever been reported in this pattern. It is definitely a very fine old Carnival Glass tumbler that is very unusual and pretty. It is one that you might want to look for on your Carnival Glass hunting trips. We can assure you that it is a rare one.

This is our 160th entry into this series. Next month we will cover another very rare tumbler that is known as Hobstar Diamonds.

SEAWEED ICE CREAM SHAPED BOWL IN GREEN

The very graceful Seaweed pattern was made by the old Millersburg Glass Co. of Millersburg, Ohio. We consider it as one of the scarcer Millersburg patterns. Any piece in this pattern is really not easy to find. The I.C.S. bowl shown above is in the 10" size with super color and radiant iridescence. It has always been one of our favorite Millersburg pieces. You really need to see this piece to realize how beautiful it really is. Even though this is not the rariest size in this pattern, we consider them very rare in the ice cream shape. We have seen or heard of only 6 or 7 in this shape. The colors known in these 10" ice cream bowls are marigold, green, amethyst and we have seen one in blue.

The Seaweed pattern was also made in the 9" size bowl. This size is considered to be even more rare than the larger 10" size. We consider that the 10" ice cream shaped bowls are about as rare, however. A 9½" plate is also known, which was flattened out from this 9" bowl. It is 1 ¾" high, but does curve up slightly on the outer edge. Even so, it is a very rare piece of Carnival Glass.

We can't fail to mention the little sauces in this pattern. They are extremely rare. We have actually seen only one in green, two in marigold and have heard that there is one in amethyst out there somewhere. Believe it or not, and some of you know, one of these little sauces turned up at one of the Conventions last summer in blue! It being in blue is enough said to make it a great rarity, but in addition to being blue, this little piece is super in color and with outstanding radiant iridescence! One thing is for sure, I will be dreaming about that little jewel for many years to come.

This is $148 in our Pictorial Pattern Parade series. We hope that you have found it both interesting and educational.

Since the publication of my article on Cambridge Carnival in the January issue of the H.O.A.C.G.A. Bulletin, I have received many favorable comments from Club members. I have also received several calls and letters that question much of the information that I presented regarding the production dates for Cambridge Carnival. Most of this seems to stem from a statement made in the popular book entitled "Colors in Cambridge Glass", published by the National Cambridge Collectors, Inc. In it, on page 10, a statement is made to the effect that Cambridge first produced Carnival in 1908, preceeded only by Fenton. It is not my intent to criticize this book, because it is an excellent and invaluable source of information. However, a 1908 production date for Cambridge Carnival is not only extremely unlikely, but a close examination of several key factors will prove it to be nearly impossible!

Virtually all of the Cambridge Carnival patterns were of the "Near-Cut" or "Intaglio" variety. All of them were given pattern numbers at the factory. These numbers ran in a general sequence. The lower the number, the earlier the production. The higher the number, the later the production. This was a common procedure by most glass factories. Only two of the patterns that were to undergo major production of Carnival were in existence in 1908. The pattern we call Sweetheart was first introduced in CRYSTAL ONLY in 1906. It's pattern number was 2631. Inverted Feather was added to the line, again in CRYSTAL ONLY in 1907. It was #2651. The so-called Near-Cut Souvenir tumblers, mugs and small creamers were added to the line early in 1909, and bore the number 2658. At that time they were offered in the trade catalogs only in crystal with fired on ruby, gold or light green decoration. There is no mention of iridized ones.

Virtually all of the other major Carnival patterns by Cambridge had much higher sequenced pattern numbers, indicating their arrival on the scene at a much later date! The Near-Cut decanter was #2666. Buzz Saw was introduced in 1910, again in CRYSTAL ONLY, and was #2699. Two key patterns appeared in crystal only in Cambridge catalogs for the first time in 1911, Inverted Thistle #2766, and Inverted Strawberry #2780. I have carried this point of evidence far enough. It is obvious that the majority of Cambridge Carnival patterns did not even exist in 1908, and therefore could not possibly have undergone Carnival production at that time! In regards to the two exceptions, Sweetheart and Inverted Feather, I have spent many hours going over hundreds of pages of catalogs and trade journals dated between 1906 and 1910, and I can find no evidence of any production of these two patterns in anything other than crystal at that time!

We must now turn our attention to color, for it is here that some of the most important evidence is found. Two of the major Cambridge Carnival production colors were, of course, green and amethyst. Cambridge called these two colors dark emerald and mulberry, respectively. Existing Cambridge factory records, trade journals and wholesale catalogs CONFIRM that the emerald color was first introduced in the line in January, 1916, and mulberry (amethyst) was first made in June, 1916. Therefore, virtually ALL green and amethyst Cambridge Carnival must date from after January, 1916, and could not possibly have been produced in 1908!

As to marigold production, I will stick to my guns on the 1914 period as the earliest for Cambridge. This is based on a personal observation that is the earliest evidence for Cambridge Carnival production that I have seen in my 23 years of Carnival collecting. I was once privileged to examine, in the collection of the late John Stewart of Weymouth, Massachusetts, a Near-Cut Souvenir mug, in marigold, that had the date 1914 on it! (To whomever now owns that mug, you own a key piece of evidence in the history of Cambridge Carnival.) If anyone has a Near-Cut Souvenir piece with an earlier date, I would sure like to hear about it, as it would be a very important find!

Lastly, we have evidence that combines two factors. Printed fact and plain old common sense! To know that Fenton introduced Carnival in 1908. By 1910, mass production of it was well underway by all of the major producers. This was in response to a huge consumer demand, and a fierce competition by the major glass companies for a share of the market. The Fall, 1910 Butler Bros. catalog is LOADED with Carnival by Fenton, Northwood, Millersburg, Imperial, Dugan, and even Westmoreland. But there is virtually none by Cambridge! Plenty of Cambridge items in clear, pressed crystal, but NO CARNIVAL! If Cambridge had produced Carnival in 1908, close on the heels of Fenton, why would they then totally abandon the rapidly expanding market to their competitors? It makes no sense whatsoever. The only logical answer is that they were not yet in the business of making Carnival at all! That was to come later, after the arrival and influence of Oliver Philips from Millersburg, and Thomas Dugan from Indiana, Pennsylvania, in 1912.

So, to all those who asked what I was basing my claims on, you now have some pretty hard evidence to support them. And to all those who still support a 1908 production date for Cambridge Carnival, I will issue a friendly challenge. You've seen some of my evidence. Now, show me yours!

FROM OUR MEMBERS.....

There has been much written about price guides and antique reference books and most I believe are a waste of money and only fill up a shelf or corner of a cabinet.

The one group of Carnival reference books I never leave home without are the computer Carnival Glass Auction Prices printed by Tom Mordini. I have them from 1983 to present and they have made me many a good buy and saved me many dollars. Example in point, this past News Years Day there was an auction we attended with 150 odd pieces of Carnival Glass listed, but no description. When at the sale site, we could quickly eliminate 140 pieces, leaving approximately 10 nice pieces. The surprise to me was an Amber Imperial Grape rose bowl. No one else seemed to pay much attention to it, but after looking through the Auction Price Guide books (all 8 years), found only one having sold, being in 1989 for $675.00 (John Britt auction). I felt this was a piece I would like for our collection and was able to purchase it at a reasonable price.

I could give more examples like the one above and feel you should not only look at the current book, but as many copies as you can find because the rare and seldom seen pieces may only turn up once or twice in all of the 8 books. Price guides will give you a trend after a number of years sales, but you need to know now if you are going to try and stay current to the trend, and believe me there are trends from year to year. Pastels one year, water sets another or mugs are off and something else hot and so on. Just a thought, but the only one getting current benefit from price guides are the author and printer.

I don't work for Tom Mordini, and receiving no financial gain for this article but I think something needs to be said for a job well done. Thanks Tom. Most all issues of past copies are still available.

It was a Thursday morning. I was feeling rather lethargic and decided to buy a newspaper to see what was happening on the antique trail for the weekend. I was in the garage sale section when my eyes happened to pass over the word Carnival. Backtracking, I reread the ad--yep, there it was--rare Carnival Glass decanter. Interesting, was my thought, but I can just guess at what it is. Sure enough it will be a marigold Imperial wine decanter with a crack in the bottom.

Should I go anyway just to see? Well, as I mentioned, I was kind of tired that day and I decided to think on it. After all, it was an hour drive and it started at 9:00 A.M. This meant I'd have to get up very early.

I decided that I would go---only if I awakened at the prescribed time. Odds were---knowing me---I wouldn't be going.

The next morning I was awake at 5:30. I guess this meant that I was going, as I couldn't return to sleep, try as I might. I got up, got ready, and was on the trail by 6:30.

I arrived at my destination at 7:30. The people were busy getting ready, marking and pricing, and they pointed to the sign-up sheet on the front door. Ten people had already signed the sheet as they had been there the day before trying to buy early. I was the only one that had arrived early for the sale that morning. As I was applying my signature I said to the lady, "What is this Carnival Glass decanter you have?" She said she didn't have it out because she was afraid of breakage, but she said she would get it out for me as long as I was asking and it was the morning of the sale. I was thinking at least I wouldn't have to wait until 9:00, starting time, if it was a real disappointment. I was hoping beyond hope for it to be a Grape & Cable whiskey decanter or something on that level. Out she walked with it and I nearly fell through the floor. I was looking at a Carnival piece I had seen only in books. It was a Cambridge--green-Near Cut whiskey decanter. But I couldn't see the stopper. Along with my elation came a slight sinking feeling. Then out from her fisted hand came the stopper.

This was too good to be true. When she said rare, she wasn't kidding. I was afraid to ask the price, knowing that the ad indicated the person had knowledge of it being a rare piece. I didn't steal it--not a $100.00 deal--but I got a very good price for a rarity of this kind. She just wanted to get rid of it, she indicated, because she was afraid of breaking it when she moved. She decided she would sell the piece early and risk the ravages of the people who arrived at 9:00 asking about the Carnival piece.

Never did I dream of this kind of decanter find. I can still hear my thoughts I guess I'll go, but only if I wake up in time to go. I'm still not sure that I have, and it's all just a dream. No, I guess it isn't. I'm sitting here looking at it. But I wouldn't even mind a dream or two of this kind, every once in a while.

Other attractions will feature our Salmon-Potluck Picnic, Poolside Luau, Midnight Auction, Costume Party/Dance....glass buying, selling viewing etc.

Mark your calender now and make plans to see the beautiful Pacific Northwest in August.

After reading about the record prices paid for some rare pieces of Carnival Glass, I became dejected with my meager collection. Being a person of modest means, I knew I would never be able to own such choice pieces. I considered quitting on Carnival Glass, for I knew my collection would never be up to par with others.

I was standing in front of one of my curio cabinets when my sweet little wife walked up and said "Pretty, isn't it?" It was then I realized why I bought the pieces in the first place. It was for their beauty. I'm sure that rarity determines the price of Carnival Glass, but to me there is great value in its' beauty. And there are a lot of beautiful pieces to be had for a modest price.

My collection may never be recognized for the dollar value, but its' beauty gives me great pleasure. I hope other collectors will stop and consider the beauty of Carnival Glass, instead of just considering its' rarity.

WESTERN BUCKEYE CARNIVAL GLASS CLUB NEWS

Larry & Debra Yung of Middletown, Ohio hosted the March, 1991 meeting of the Western Buckeye Carnival Glass Club at their home. The meeting was preceeded by brunch at the nearby Holiday Inn. Several members brought glass for sale and also for others to see. Topping the recent purchases were a white Acorn Burrs punch set, a six-inch green Millersburg Vintage/Hobnail berry dish, a green Millersburg Hanging Cherries compote and a red opalescent Fenton Fine Rib vase. And everyone enjoyed Larry and Debra's fine collection. The business of the day was conducted by President Yung. Minutes and Treasurers Report were read and approved. Harold Wagner has been looking for a permanent place for the Club to meet, no luck yet. Beverly and Henry Hawk were appointed to co-ordinate with the I.C.G.A. for the 1992 Convention to be held in Lima, Ohio.

The Western Buckeye Club auction is well firmed, November 8-9, 1991 at the Best Western Motel in New Philadelphia, Ohio with Tom Burns as the auctioneer. There are already a number of outstanding and excellent pieces pledged for this auction.

The next regular meeting of the Club is scheduled for Sunday, September 8, 1991 at the home of Norm and Barb Archer and this will be the annual glass swap meet. Any interested collector is urged to bring a table full of glass and join us in the festivities.
