DEAR H.O.A.C.G.A. MEMBERS, PRESIDENT BOB, AND "ROASTORS" RICHARD CINCLAIR, JIM SEECK, GEORGE LOESCHER, BOB ALLAIRE, AND CARL SCHROEDER:

Thanks to all of you for the program honoring us at the H.O.A.C.G.A. Convention. The first annual JOHN AND LUCILE BRITT EXCELLENCE IN CARNIVAL GLASS Award is an honor that we will cherish for a long time, along with many other wonderful memories of the people in our Carnival Glass Hobby.

The "Roastors" were right on target and we think all of you are funny enough to be on T.V. (Probably on America's Most Wanted.)

Thanks again and call us when you are in Houston.

CECIL AND FLOYD WHITLEY

Response and acceptance of the Butler Brothers Book has been overwhelming! The San Diego and Southern California Carnival Glass Clubs funded a limited edition printing which produced 241 copies. We had hoped for at least 250, and possibly another dozen in overruns. However, with a book of this size, the bindery ran into problems with having to hand-feed each book into the machine.

We are grateful for the limited success of the project, thankful to all those who were able to secure a copy, and most apologetic to the numbers of interested collectors who must be dissappointed.

It is with mixed emotions that we report the books SOLD OUT!

DEAN & DIANE FRY

Two items in the May, 1994 Bulletin caught our attention and so we offer the following information.

THE CACTUS TUMBLER

In answer to Mary Rockwell's query regarding her Cactus tumbler, this is almost certainly a St. Clair piece, manufactured during the late 1960's. We purchased a similar cobalt blue example, with beautiful iridescence, several years back and have always believed it to be a fine example of modern Carnival. According to the late William Heacock, the pattern "originated at the Greentown plant of Indiana Tumbler and Goblet, where it was made in chocolate glass by Jake Rosenthal." *The St. Clairs began making glass at Elwood, Indiana in 1941. In 1958 Joe St. Clair assumed full command and 9 years later introduced St. Clair's Carnival Glass. Many pieces, ranging from toothpicks to tumblers, were made using old moulds that had not been used for Carnival Glass production before. The Cactus pattern was used by St. Clair for toothpicks, salt and pepper shakers and tumblers and we understand that they were made in cobalt blue, amber, white, marigold and red Carnival. Some, but not all bear the St. Clair trademark. Fenton have also made modern Carnival items in the Cactus pattern. We have a beautiful vase and a small toothpick, both in aqua opalescent Carnival marked Fenton.

*Fenton Glass, The Third Twenty-Five Years by William Heacock

THE SOWERBY BOWL

The other item that caught our attention was the intaglio rose patterned bowl that Karen Skinner showed. The pattern is Flora and we believe it was made by Sowerby's of Gateshead, England, possibly in the 1920's or 1930's. Very few of them are to be found in Carnival Glass, and one has to consider them rare. However, the mould was used extensively for later, non-Carnival production in clear, amber, blue green and pink glass, with or without a sand-blasted treatment which gave a dull acid-etched effect. A bowl is shown in Sowerby's Pattern Book as late as 1956, with a central glass female figurine and a separate plinth (the figure has holes around the bottom for fixing flower stems into.) It is described as a "Floating Bowl with Figure and Plinth. Bowl & Figure supplied with or without Sandblast Decoration." The plinth or base stand was separate and was made of black glass. WE are not aware that it would have been used as a Church collection plate, more likely a decorative bowl for the house. We believe that the bowls were bought in large quantity by a chocolate manufacturer, Cadbury's (the UK equivalent of Hershey), who sold them with confectionery (candy) arranged around the centerpiece figurine, and decorated with ribbons. The drawings show the "Floating Bowl" with figurine and a detail of the Flora pattern.

In Network 2, our new, illustrated publication on Carnival Glass, we feature articles on Sowerby's Carnival Glass as well as that of St. Clair. HOACGA readers interested in following this up can obtain Network from Joan and Dave Doty, PageWorks, P. O. Box 14493, Chicago, IL 60614, $20.00 per year (for 4 issues). Checks payable to Page Works. Other articles have included Vaseline Carnival, Millersburg, Fenton's Butterflies, Embroidery patterns in Carnival & Enamelled Carnival. Future writings feature unusual Secondary patterns, rare (unlisted) vases plus recent research on Four Flowers Variant and detailed features on Carnival shapes.

ROSE PATTERNS PART 2

The May issue of the H.O.A.C.G.A. Bulletin contained a reprint I sent in of an article written by the late William Heacock, describing two unknown (at that time) rose motif Carnival Glass patterns. This article was published in the Summer, 1982 issue of the Glass Collector research magazine (still available from Antique Publications, Marietta, Ohio) The Northwood bon bon was named "Basket of Roses" by collector Tom Sprain.

The large blue bowl is taken by most collectors to be a part of the Swedish Eda Company "Rose Garden" line. However, English collector, Ray Notley, submitted information concerning this bowl which was published in the Fall, 1982 issue of the Glass Collector. A Sowerby's Ellison Glassworks Ltd. catalog ad from 1936 was shown in the article which gave the original manufacturer's name as "Flora". The Sowerby Covered Swan and Covered Hen dishes which can also be found iridized are also shown in this same ad. Mr. Notley thought that the iridescent version of this bowl predated this ad by about ten years. To my knowledge, the figural lady flower frog shown in this ad has never been found iridized.

KAREN E. SKINNER

CASE OF THE ABSENTEE LEAF STRAWBERRY WREATH

The four compotes known to display one leaf without stippling may be forerunners to the ruffled compotes in that pattern which we find in amethyst-lavendar, marigold, green, with all leaves stippled.

Two marigold "absentees" in the ruffled version are known, one green example, which is slightly cupped as a rosebowl is known and the vaseline version is somewhat tri-cornered in shape. It would be nice to learn of an amethyst example, if there is one. The vaseline compote is pictured here.

Whether these four compotes were made as "samples" is not known. Certainly, the stippling was added to that leaf for later production of all colors.

Question is? Was an amethyst or lavendar absentee example made? Perhaps YOU will be the lucky locater!

A NEW LOOK AT SWANS
BY ALAN PICKUP

Swan novelties were made by Dugan Glass-Ware Company, Fenton Art Glass and Imperial Glass.

(See Dugan/Diamond p. 67, 68, 128, 145. Illustrated Fig. 229, 424, 534 and back cover. See Fenton 1st 25 Years p. 55 (Fenton mold) and 109 (Northwood mold). See Archer Imperial Book page 204.)

Fenton bought glass molds from the Northwood plant in Wheeling, West Virginia, after it closed in 1926. The Northwood Swan mold was apparently one of the molds that Fenton acquired.

(See Fenton 1st 25 Years p. 55 and 109.
See Heacocks Glass Collector issue 5, page 23.)

I can't find any evidence at this time that Northwood ever made any Swans with their Swan mold at the Wheeling plant. I also have to disagree with the statement on page 55 of the book Fenton Glass, The First Twenty-Five Years, that "The Northwood and Dugan swans were from the same mold, and cannot be told apart today." The feather detail differs considerably.

(See Northwood's The Wheeling Years 1902-1925.)

A chronological look at Harry Northwood prior to Wheeling:

Harry and Carl Northwood took over the failing Indiana Glass Company at Indiana, Pennsylvania, in February 1896. Included in the key personnel were Thomas Dugan (Harry's uncle) and Albert Dugan (Harry's cousin who was Thomas Dugan's nephew.)

(See Harry Northwood, The Early Years p. 106-107 (the plant takeover)
See p. 108 (the Dugans)

Northwood in September, 1899 joined the National Glass Company conglomerate and Harry and Carl left for England the following month. Although Harry Northwood was not connected with the National's manufacturing operation at Indiana, Pennsylvania, the plant was officially called the Northwood Glass Works of the National Glass Company, until 1903 when it became Dugan, and in 1913 the name was changed again to Diamond Glass-Works. The Diamond plant was destroyed by fire in 1931.

(See Harry Northwood, The Early Years p 139, 140
See Dugan/Diamond p. 1, 5, 12)
See Heacock Issue Six The Glass Collector p. 18)

Swans were made by Dugan during 1905-1908 in opalescent colors. Some green opal and blue opal swans were signed with a D within a diamond. This was a seldom-used Dugan trademark. Also shown in 1914 and 1915 Butler Brothers ads in iridescent colors. These iridescent swans were made from what I consider the old, and by now well worn, Dugan/Diamond mold. The company in this period was Dugan/Diamond not Northwood. It seems that the plant workers and molds remained relatively constant but the management changed a lot. Harry Northwood was long gone when these swans were being made. In fact, Harry Northwood had returned from England in 1901 and started the Northwood Wheeling plant in direct competition with the Indiana, Pennsylvania plant. The book Harry Northwood, The Wheeling Years 1901-1925, makes no mention of swans or shows any ads that include the swan novelties. Nor do the Butler Brothers catalogs that I have seen show a swan in the Northwood glass assortments.

Should the Northwood swan molds purportedly purchased by Fenton in 1926 be called Northwood-Fenton swans and not Northwood Dugan swans? Now what bothers me is that on a recent trip to the Fenton factory we bought a couple of new swans with the Fenton logo on the bottom. These new swans were made from the old so-called Northwood mold, not from either of the two different Fenton molds. Why does this bother me? The Fenton logo was not in use until around 1970, which means that when buying Northwood-Fenton swans, unless you know what colors were made in what year at the factory, you could be buying 1965 swans at 1926 prices.

The celeste blue, ice green, and pink swans that are most often seen today are made from two different Fenton molds. When did Fenton start using the Northwood mold? I bought a frosted crystal swan made by Fenton in 1938 with the so-called Northwood mold from the Britt 1994 auction. It was listed erroneously as a Dugan swan, Lot 309. See page 109 of the Fenton book for the frosted crystal pictured ad. Also an ebony Fenton swan was sold in the Britt 1994 sale, a color not often seen.

I recently asked Frank Fenton why the so-called Northwood swan molds were being used and not the Fenton molds. His reply was that the mold was easier to work. For some technical reason the glass is easier to remove from the so-called Northwood mold. He stated that the word Northwood is on the top of the mold. But he also said that after the Diamond factory burned in 1931, Fenton bought the overhead air ductwork "wind" system (pictured on page 18 of the Dugan/Diamond book) and some molds, including the swan mold.

The Dugan/Diamond mold was breaking apart. I have a marigold swan that shows the mold to be in a disintegrating state. Could Diamond Glass have just had a new swan mold made before the fire? Would that explain the lack of Northwood swans? But if it was a newly made Diamond mold, why was the name Northwood on the mold 32 years after Harry left the Indiana, Pennsylvania plant?

The Imperial swans. They seldom appear in the Carnival Glass auctions. Why? They apparently were not made in iridized colors. The old Imperial ads list colors such as Imperial Green, Stiegel Green, Pink, Amber, and Ritz Blue. Also found in Blue Opal, Green Opal, Crystal and Milk Glass. Again beware of buying new swans as old swans. The newer Imperial swans are not all signed I/G or LI/G, but once you compare the old and the new swans it is easy to tell the difference. The old swans are very delicate with a more detailed head, compared to the heavier, thicker glass and ugly head on the new swans.

The easiest way to see the difference in the various swan molds is to lay about 18 swans on the table and compare. The first thing you will notice is the new Imperial swans keep getting up, due to their weight and balance. The other details such as neck lengths, head shapes, feather shapes, etc. will take you a little longer.

SUPER, SUPER RARITY! NORTHWOOD PEACOCK & URN LARGE ICE CREAM SHAPED BOWL IN PEARL CARNIVAL

I have seen many beautiful pieces of glass, but when I first saw this piece of glass, I thought that I would faint.

This is SUPER PASTEL in beautiful pink and blue iridescence. This is the first one ever found in this color. I have all the colors in this pattern, including the VERY RARE AQUA OPAL bowl, but to find this one is like putting icing on the cake. This has to be the rarest color known in Northwood Peacock & Urn large ice cream bowls. It is iridized front and on the back of the bowl.

Anyway this pearl Northwood large Peacock & Urn ice cream bowl would be something anyone would be proud to have in ANY COLLECTION.

So, GOOD LUCK and HAPPY HUNTING.

A PEEK INTO THE PAST - - IN CARNIVAL GLASS

BY JOHN & LUCILE BRITT

This month our Peek Into The Past issue will feature the Mr. & Mrs. Neal Markham auction held at Effingham, Illinois on October 20 and 21, 1978. Auctioneers were John Woody and assisted by Leonard Augustine. The Markham's were avid Carnival Glass collectors and attended most of the auctions and conventions dealing with Carnival Glass in the 1970's. Neal retired from his work and they sold their collection due to health reasons. They moved to Florida for their retirement and sometime later he passed away. We first met them at the 1971 I.C.G.A. Convention in Louisville, Kentucky. They were early members of the H.O.A.C.G.A. and attended the early conventions of that Club. The results of their auction is as follows:

This was a well attended auction held at the Effingham, Illinois Holiday Inn. The color and iridescence of the pieces were well above average. Most of this Carnival Glass would sell for much much more today. There was a very nice selection of marigold Grape & Cable, plates and advertising pieces. We can well remember when they found the purple Corn Husk Vase and the amethyst Goddess of Harvest bowl. These were their favorite two pieces.

This article covering the auction of Mr. & Mrs. Neal Markham is #59 in our Peek Into The Past Series. We hope that you have found it interesting.

HOBSTAR AND SHIELD TUMBLER

The Hobstar and Shield tumbler is somewhat smaller than most other Carnival Glass tumblers that we have seen. Most American made water tumblers are usually four inches high or slightly more than that. The Hobstar and Shield example stands only 3 5/8 inches high with a top opening of 2 5/8 inches. The base is 2 1/4 inches in diameter. It is slightly depressed and smooth on the underside. The outer 1/8 inch edge of the base has been factory ground and nicely polished.

There are three of the Hobstar and Shield motifs spaced evenly around the tumbler. Between each of these motifs are five side by side spearpoint figures about 2 1/2 inches long. All of the figures in this pattern are of the intaglio type.

This pattern appears to be foreign made, most likely European, but we have not been able to find any information that would designate it to any particular country. We understand that the Thistlewood's of England found a pitcher in this pattern in the blue color. This means that some blue tumblers in the Hobstar and Shield pattern will likely show up some time in the future. WE expect to find out more about this tumbler in the future.

The first one of these Hobstar and Shield tumblers that came to our attention was in the large Carnival Glass collection owned by Jim and Marleen Mogg of

HOBSTAR AND SHIELD SHOWING THE WATER PITCHER

Hamilton, Missouri. They owned the pitcher and three tumblers in this pattern. They graciously agreed to sell us one of the tumblers for our tumbler collection. This was back in the early 1970's. Since that time, we know of only one more water pitcher and six tumblers that have ever been reported. This would indicate to us that they are quite rare.

This fine foreign made tumbler will give Carnival Glass tumbler collectors another pattern to look for and add to their collection.

The Hobstar and Shield pattern marks our 197th entry into the Educational Tumbler Series. Our first article in this series, featuring the Western Thistle tumbler, appeared in the December, 1977 issue of the H.O.A.C.G.A. Bulletin. Donald Kime was the H.O.A.C.G.A. Bulletin Editor at that time. He was then living in Topeka, Kansas. Lucile was serving one of her six years as Secretary of the H.O.A.C.G.A. Club. This is a rather short time I suppose when you consider that on June 22, 1994, she will have served as my secretary for 56 years.

PICTORIAL PATTERN PARADE
BY JOHN & LUCILE BRITT

THIN RIB AND DRAPE VASES

The Thin Rib and Drape vases are shown above in marigold, purple and green. We get a lot of phone calls and correspondence as to the name of these vases, so we decided to devote an article to this pattern.

The Thin Rib and Drape vase is very similar to the Morning Glory vases. Both are usually flared out at the top, but not always. Both have six of the raised ribs. The Thin Rib and Drape has a column of drapes between each of the ribs, while the Morning Glory is perfectly smooth in these areas. The Morning Glory vases get their name from the flared out top resembling a morning glory blossom. The Thin Rib and Drape got it's name from the thin ribs and the column of drapes between each of the ribs. The patterns are also slightly different where the ribs meet the bottom of the vase. The two patterns also contain different designs on the underside of their bases. The underside of the Morning Glory contains a 12 pointed star while a sunburst or hobstar type figure is featured on the bottom of the Thin Rib and Drape examples.

Our featured Thin Rib and Drape vases are usually found in the small four to seven inch tall examples. Like the small Morning Glory vases, the smaller they are the more desirable. You will find that the Thin Rib and Drape vases are much harder to find than their Morning Glory counterparts. A 5½" purple Thin Rib and Drape vase sold at the March 25 & 26, 1994 Seck auction at St. Peter, Missouri for $255.00. A 4 3/4" example in green sold for $225.00 and a 5" marigold vase sold at $120.00.

The little Morning Glory vases were made by the old Imperial Glass Company of Belaire, Ohio. Our first thought would be that the Thin Rib and Drape vases would have been made by a competitor of Imperial such as Fenton or Northwood. But due to the helios green color, a color used a great deal by Imperial, we suspect that this pattern was also made by Imperial. The purple color and iridescence used on the purple examples in this pattern certainly would lean to Imperial. In addition to this, we have never seen this vase referred to from any other company that is known for their production of Carnival Glass.

This is the 185th entry into our Pictorial Pattern Parade Series. We hope that you have found it interesting and educational.

A LOOK AT TABLE SETS
BY CHUCK & MARGE KREMER

THE COSMOS & CANE TABLE SET

This is considered a U. S. Glass pattern and is listed in honey amber, marigold and white with all colors being scarce. We rarely see a piece in what we call dark marigold, so we wonder if marigold and honey amber are not used interchangeably. We are a little partial to the soft honey-marigold color that is referred to as honey amber. This color is unique in our Carnival Glass. The white color is usually a frosty white that is a good companion to the honey amber.

The pattern consists of two alternating flower blossom designs circling the pieces (the number varies with the size of the piece) hence the Cosmos in the name. The filler is a cluster of elongated flower leaves separated by a cane type background reminiscent of chair caning. The butter base has the pattern on the underside and it covers the entire bottom--there is no collar or special surface for the base to rest on and it is completely iridized. Since the base is gently curved, there are no sharp edges on the underside to become easily chipped.

Other than the butter dish, the pieces rest on a somewhat modified collar. The pattern extends down to the very edge and of course was susceptible to more edge chipping. The underside of these three pieces is covered with four flower blossoms and intertwining leaves.

We were able to purchase a complete white set at the 1991 I.C.G.A. Convention auction. Our honey amber set was acquired a piece at a time, spread over six years. The spooner came from ELCO Flea Market in Atlanta, Georgia; the creamer out of a room at a H.O.A.C.G.A. Convention; the sugar from a Louisiana dealer; and the butter top and bottom three years apart in Pennsylvania. Years earlier we had purchased our first piece in this pattern--a white butter dish with a distinctive lavender tint. Needless to say, we have never seen the other pieces to match this odd tint. Eight of the pieces we have are in top condition, but we finally accepted a base chip on one piece to complete the set--we thought it was "now or never."

We understand there is a breakfast set in this pattern--a creamer and open sugar a little smaller than their counterparts in the four piece table set. We have only seen one of these pieces. This is number 24 in our Series on Table Sets.

APRIL 21-24, 1994: H.O.A.C.G.A. Convention, Lenexa, Kansas. This Convention lived up to its reputation as one of the more educational Conventions. All three educational sessions (on miniatures, table sets and plates) were well received and featured good glass well presented. Professional videos were made of each session. While we have not yet seen these videos, they should be a must for our video libraries. Dean and Diane Fry had a super display of glass for their banquet presentation and a video was made of their glass and talk. In addition to their glass, there was a once in a lifetime showing of Farmyard bowls at the banquet.

Dean and Diane--this was a team effort. Dean did the work and Diane presented the glass. Dean said this time he was going to sit back and watch. One had to be there to watch the unloading and reloading of their glass to appreciate Dean's effort. Dean had a diagram of the load and each little spot was full. Their pickup truck was a study in design and creativity. The load not only included their glass and their display shelves, but dozens of the new book of reproduced pages from the Butler Brothers Catalogs (at 4 pounds a book) put out by the San Diego and Southern California Clubs. By the way--the book is nice and sold well so the load was lighter going home. The Frys certainly put a lot of time and effort and did a very good job in their banquet presentation.

Besides the three educational sessions and the fourth talk at the banquet, there was a Friday noon luncheon. At the luncheon five H.O.A.C.G.A. members spoke "favorably" of the Whitleys when Floyd and Cecil were presented the "John & Lucile Britt Award for Excellence in Carnival Glass."

Somehow there was time for a Seeck Auction. Jim and Vern sold the Osbon Collection on Saturday. In spite of a tight schedule, they had the glass set up for our Friday night viewing, and when Saturday morning rolled around they were ready for a snappy sale. In our opinion the variety and amount of glass was just about right for a Convention auction. Prices seemed to fit the glass and we heard the sellers were pleased with the results.

This well-run Convention had beautiful room displays, lots of glass for sale in the rooms, a good auction, a hospitality room and plenty of good, friendly people. It represented what our hobby is all about!

MAY 13-14, 1994: Cooper-Albrecht Auaciton at Waterford, Michigan. Floyd and Theresa Wright of Walnut Grove, Missouri came by and we left for the auction early Friday morning. Of course, we stopped a few times along the way to look for things other than Carnival. We would have liked to have found some Carnival Glass, but usually the dealer or mall operator looked at us like we were crazy when we asked about Carnival.

The auction was at a new location in a very nice motel complex with in-room whirlpool and a good continental breakfast. The coffee urn was full all day. Gary had his famous hors d'oeuvres Friday night at the preview, and donut holes and coffee Saturday in the auction room. The preview at the C-A auctions are always a place to visit old friends as well as view the glass. It surely was good to see Dorothy Gallo at the preview.

There were a few changes this time around--like no minimum mail bid and no mail bid handling fee. In our opinion the changes came at an opportune time. It seemed to us more than the usual number of items went to the absentee bidders. As usual this was an interesting and top notch auction from beginning to end. The junior member of the firm, Dave Albrecht, was named top Michigan bid caller and we saw why when he called part of the sale--move over Dad.

We went to the auction with no intention of buying anything, but took home several good pieces at desirable prices such as a beautiful marigold Field Thistle plate for $135.00. Floyd Wright bought a wide variety of glass and had a "field day". The auction may have been a little short on top end pieces, but there was some awfully nice glass that found new owners. When pieces were not taken by a mail bid, there were some good buys for those in attendance. As with most auctions there was something for everyone--and not always low priced.

MAY 21, 1994: Seeck Auction, Indianapolis, Indiana. We were spending a few days with our daughter in Indianapolis, so this auction was just a drive across town. We were treated to an offering of clean well displayed glass. Not too much top end glass, but plenty middle of the road pieces. The location brought in several people we seldom see at an auction.

As usual, Jim and Vern had a bundle of mail bids and at this sale they "carried the day" as a good number of the pieces went to the absentee bids. We had several pieces marked on our brochure, but went home empty handed. One piece on our list was new and the rest did not meet our expectation in price or condition. In our opinion there were some real bargains mixed in with the normal priced items.

OVERVIEW

The 1994 Convention will go on record as one of the most positive and congenial gatherings for many years.

The need for "pulling together" to overcome losses resulting from the tragedies surrounding the Doug Peters fiasco was met from all quarters. Members of H.O.A.C.G.A. are also the same members of other Carnival Glass Clubs all across this great country who have worked to establish and succeed in growth of local efforts to benefit collectors everywhere. The day when ANY organization in this Hobby was an "island unto itself" is most assuredly FINALLY over!! The Business Meeting during the Convention was attended by concerned people belonging to the NETWORK of Carnival Glass Clubs. UNITY displayed there indicates fully, the necessity for helping each other, as members of that network.

In order for Carnival Glass as a Hobby and investment for the future to continue growing, ALL CLUBS must work TOGETHER for betterment. WE are on the right path.

Each time our COMMUNITY is threatened, our bonds are strengthened. This time next year, hopefully, nothing but a bad memory will remain concerning this latest incident.

We thoroughly enjoyed presenting some of our collection for the Banquet attendees. Our thanks to the Board for inviting us!

The Educational Seminars were exceptionally good this year, friendship extension in visiting individual rooms is always a key feature, and looking for that special piece of GLASS to take home remains a highlight at each Convention. Room Displays offer such diversity and imagination that judges are challenged by the individuality of each.

We shall look forward to whatever supercedes this in next years' Convention, for WHEREVER the Carnival Glass family meets, we can always look forward to better and greater events.

JUNE, 1994, REGULAR H.O.A.C.G.A. MONTHLY MEETING:

The regular meeting of the Heart of America Carnival Glass Association for June, 1994 will be held on June 26, 1994, at 2:00 P.M. at the Raytown City Hall, Raytown, Missouri. We will salute red, white and blue pieces of Carnival Glass. Hope to see all you patroits there!

Due to trips and other schedule conflicts, the May 22, 1994 meeting attendance was down. Ed Kramer, Secretary, conducted the meeting which was very enjoyable. Everyone discussed the flowered pieces they brought. We had 16 pieces of glass including a beautiful marigold Dolphon footed rosebowl brought by Elaine Benedict.

It was a beautiful day and she and Marty drove in from Topeka, Kansas. Merri Houghton won the door prize, which will be presented at the June meeting.

UPDATE---- DOUG PETERS----TREASURER

The status of the Loss of the Money from the Club Treasure is, The Western Surety Company has assigned a local counsel (Attorney) to work with us to settle the claim of the money loss. We have submitted information to the Bonding Company which shows a loss in excess of the $30,000.00 which Doug Peters was bonded for. We have had two meetings with the local attorney regarding our claim. We anticipate a settlement within the next two weeks.

A charge of stealing, by Doug Peters, was presented to the Independence, Missouri police, they made their investigation and presented the case to the Jackson County Prosecutor. A warrant for Doug Peters was issued and he was arrested on June 2. He is now out on bond. We are awaiting word from the Prosecutor as to the date for the arraignment of the charges. We believe it will be within the next two weeks.

We are finding that the wheels of Justice grind slowly.

LETTERS TO H.O.A.C.G.A.:

Dear Mr. Kramer:

I am enclosing a cheque for a further 12 months fees for our Club membership. The magazine is a great pleasure to us and we wish we could experience all the Conventions and get-togethers you all do. Our Club here in Sydney has 4 meetings a year. Of course, we ring our friends between times when we find a "treasure".

We find we miss out upon ringing up for any advertised pieces for sale, as we get the Bulletin a little too late. I hope you don't mind me asking, but should you have a list of pieces you'd be interested in selling, we'd love to hear from you and your friends.

J & L FRIEND
NARWEE, AUSTRALIA

Dear Ed:

Enclosed is our check for renewal.

We like the Newsletter very much and we think everyone is doing a great job.
