THE IMPERIAL PROCLAMATIONS

By Carl O. Burns

Shown in the photo here, is an example of the Crabclaw bowl in a true Ice Cream shape. It measures 9 5/8" in diameter, and stands 2 3/4" deep at the edge. When viewed "head on", it is slightly actogonal in shape. The color is a true Clambroth and the quality of the iridescence is beyond belief, rich with pink, brilliant yellow and Peacock blue highlights. When seen firsthand, it is a most impressive piece of Carnival Glass. To date, I can document 2 colors for these Ice Cream shaped Crabclaw bowls: marigold and clambroth. I would not be surprised to learn of others, as the usual ruffled versions are known in purple, smoke and green, as well.

The existence of this Ice Cream shaped Crabclaw bowl was first reported to me just as the Imperial book went to press, too late to include it in the text. I received reports of 4 or 5 others over the course of the ensuing 3 months. Then, in March, I found the example shown here in a local antique shop. It was priced at $30, so needless to say it quickly found a new home.

Imperial produced very few Ice Cream shaped bowls and I would classify all of them as quite scarce. In addition to the Crabclaw, Fashion bowls may also be found in this shape. They have been documented in marigold, clambroth, and smoke. Here again, I would not be surprised if purple or green examples also exist. Other Imperial Ice Cream shaped bowls that come to mind are three footed ones in the Open Rose, or Lustre Rose, pattern. This is commonly called the Centerpiece bowl, and has been reported in marigold, clambroth, helios, smoke and amber. It is quite scarce, in any color. Three footed Ice Cream shaped bowls are also known in the Floral & Optic Pattern, but I can recall no others. If anyone has an Ice Cream shaped bowl in any other Imperial pattern, I would appreciate hearing from you.

Incidentally, while we're on the subject of the Crabclaw pattern, take a close look at the ruffled bowl called "Blaze" on page 34 of Bill Edward's 5th Edition of The Standard Encyclopedia of Carnival Glass. It is a ruffled Crabclaw bowl!!

IMPERIAL PATTERN, COLOR & SHAPE UPDATES

IMPERIAL'S GRAPE - The Handled Basket is now confirmed in purple. The Stemmed Compote is confirmed in aqua. Small, 4-5" ruffled bowls have surfaced in smoke and the 9" Flat Plate is now know to exist in true clambroth. A single example of the punch bowl, missing the base, has now been confirmed in smoke. Who's got the base and cups?

IMPERIAL'S GRAPE VARIANT - Three more of these curious bowls have surfaced, all in marigold. One of them was a big surprise, as it contains the normal Imperial's Grape pattern on the interior surface, yet it is the true variant, as it also has the single Grape Leaf molded on the exterior of the collar base!

STAR & FILE - Last month, I promised an exciting find from our friends "Down Under", and here it is. Shown in the photo below are three examples of the elusive Star & File Tall Sundae! It seems that 6 of these have been sitting quietly in the collection of John & Margaret McGrath of Quakers Hill, Australia for several years!

They are 5" tall and measure 3 3/4" across the top, exactly the correct measurements that are given in the old factory catalog reprint on page 24 of my Imperial book. The McGraths were not aware that these had never surfaced here in the U.S., or at least had never been documented. Perhaps this is why. Maybe the bulk of them were shipped overseas. John and Margaret informed me that they purchased these at an auction. The auctioneer claimed that he had obtained these in a shipment of antiques from England. Interesting! My thanks to John & Margaret for sharing this with us and for sending the photo.

MORE "NOT IMPERIAL"

BEADED PANELS "POWDER JAR" - This is another late Carnival Era pattern made by the Hazel Atlas Glass Co., circa 1927-1935. Like the Diamond Point Columns "Powder Jar" mentioned in last month's article, it was originally advertised as an "Ice Box Size Covered Butter".

BLOSSOM & BAND BERRY SET - While it is now certain that the Car Vase in this design is a product of The Diamond Glass Co., the Berry set bearing this name is not! It is another late Carnival pattern produced by The Hazel Atlas Glass Co. It appears in company with the Diamond Points Columns Berry Set in the April 1929 Butler Brothers Catalog.

DAISY & BUTTON HAT - This is definitely a product of The U.S. Glass Co. Molds for this pattern were used at several of their member factories, including The Central Glass Works of Wheeling, West Virginia. The mis-attribution to Imperial likely stems from the new Carnival examples that Imperial made in the 1960's and 70's. Remember, Imperial purchased the molds of the Central Glass Works in 1940!

That's it for this time. Next time, we'll feature one of Imperial's Candlestick patterns. in a previously un-reported color. 'Til then... Happy Hunting!

IMPORTANT NOTICE - Because of the new, nation-wide 911 systems now being put in place, I have been assigned a new address. I have NOT moved! As of July 1, 1996, anyone wishing to order the Imperial Book ($18.95 + $2.50 shipping), or the Northwood Book ($24.95 + $2.50 shipping), should send their orders to the following address: Carl O. Restoring an old house is not a project for the faint of heart. Have exterior painting going on, and have difficulty in repairing the dry rot as fast as the painter can find it. Fortunately, he takes the weekends off, so it gives me a chance to catch up! Shouldn't complain though, I've wanted to do this all my life, and with any luck, may live to see it completed.

Had friends up recently from Florida and took a few days off to take them out and about to the local tourist traps. If you ever pass through this way, you really should visit the Biltmore Estate in Asheville, NC. It's the largest private home ever built in the United States: they measure it in acres instead of square feet! It's open daily year round and is well worth the price of admission.

On to business.

Q: Could you identify the vase in the enclosed picture? It's 15½" tall and the top is 8½" across. The base is textured like the Dugan Twigs vase, and the trunk is ribbed like a Fenton Fine Rib vase. Color is marigold. I have a pair of them. Also would appreciate a value.

A: Your vases are not Carnival Glass, but rather Art Glass. I'm certain there is a pontil mark somewhere on them (probably the bottom), and they are either mold blown or free formed, not pressed. In Larry Freemans' book, "Iridescent Glass" (long out of print), he goes into great detail explaining the different methods of iridising glass. Mr. Freeman states that glass of quality such as Tiffany and Steuben was processed by an "in the batch" iridescence, while cheaper types of glass, such as Carnival Glass, were iridised by a "spray on" technique. I'm sure Mr. Freeman would be mortified to know that this cheaper glass has, in many cases, exceeded his glass of quality in the area of value. Your vases are called jack-in-the-pulpit trumpet vases in art glass circles, and are of the Tiffany/Steuben/Loetz type. A lot of contemporary glassware has utilized the applied vine design which is employed on your vases, and without actually being able to touch your pieces, I'd be hard pressed to know for a certainty the age of these items. Assuming them to be contemporary, I'd estimate the value of the pair at $300 - $400; however, if they are old, the value could run up into the thousands. I plan to be at the New England Convention in the Fall, so bring them, and I'll give you a more succinct appraisal.

Robin Dodd of Moncks Corner, SC sent in a couple of questions.

Q: Can you tell me what color my Good Luck bowl is and what it's value might be? It has one point missing.

A: The color is teal, which is really a sapphire blue base glass with heavy marigold overlay, and a perfect one would fetch from $1000 - $1800. With a point gone, I think yours would bring from 25% to 50% of that.

Q: Can you tell me what kind of bowl this is?

A: Your picture wasn't going to mean much in a black and white reproduction, but your bowl is an Imperial Jewels piece and technically would fit into the stretch glass field of the early thirties. You failed to give me a base color or a size, so an exact evaluation is not possible. Still, generally speaking, all these items tend to fall into the under $100 range.

Heard from old friend Rudy Kovacs of Pembroke Pines, Florida. Rudy recently came up with a Millersburg Hanging Cherries 10" ice cream bowl that he describes as clambroth and has a half radium, half satin finish.

Q: I can find no record of another bowl in this color ever changing hands. Would you consider this piece a whimsey, one of a kind, or a workers hangover?

A: The reason you have been unable to obtain any information on your bowl is probably because it would be listed as marigold, not clambroth. Auction brochures seldom make any distinction between the various shades that marigold comes in, and if there really is a color called clambroth, (and you can find a lot of people who would dispute it) it was only made by Imperial. The half satin, half radium thing is not really unusual on Millersburg pieces. Hanging Cherries ice cream bowls are particularly prone to be radium in the center, and become satin as you approach the outer edge. Totally radium ones are extremely hard to come by.

Norma Wagner of Spirit Lake, Iowa sent in the following "gotcha" question.

Q: Recently purchased a white six sided vase with hounds tooth hobnail exterior pattern. What I find unusual about the vase is the embossed mark on the bottom; "Hoosier Glass" and a number. Have you ever seen this mark on any other piece of glass?

A: No, and apparently neither has any one in Indiana (that is the Hoosier State, isn't it?), because I've talked to all of them in the past few days! My new glass research material stops at the mid 1980's, and there's no mention of this Company anywhere in my data base. Lee Markley though this might be one of several glass manufacturers in the Elwood, Indiana area, but also felt perhaps they were now defunct. The trail of referrals led me to several nice people I'd never met before, but alas, no "for sure" information on Hoosier Glass. I'm fairly certain this item had to have been produced in last twenty, and probably, last ten years. Any value judgement, on my part, would be an entirely uneducated guess, so I'll dodge the issue by saying it's probably in the same ballpark as other contemporary glass.

Had several calls wanting to know what the heck my carfare reference last month was all about. I was alluding to what I thought was a famous vamp from Pearl Bailey's rendition of "The Lady Is a Tramp". Guess I got to cute for my own good, or there aren't many blues fans in Carnival Glass.

Just received my bulletin, & apparently I've stepped on Mike Carwiles' toes. If something I said, or how I said it, has offended Mike's sensibilities, I regret it and duly apologize. What I don't regret is stating MY opinion as to the value of Bill Edwards books as research tools.

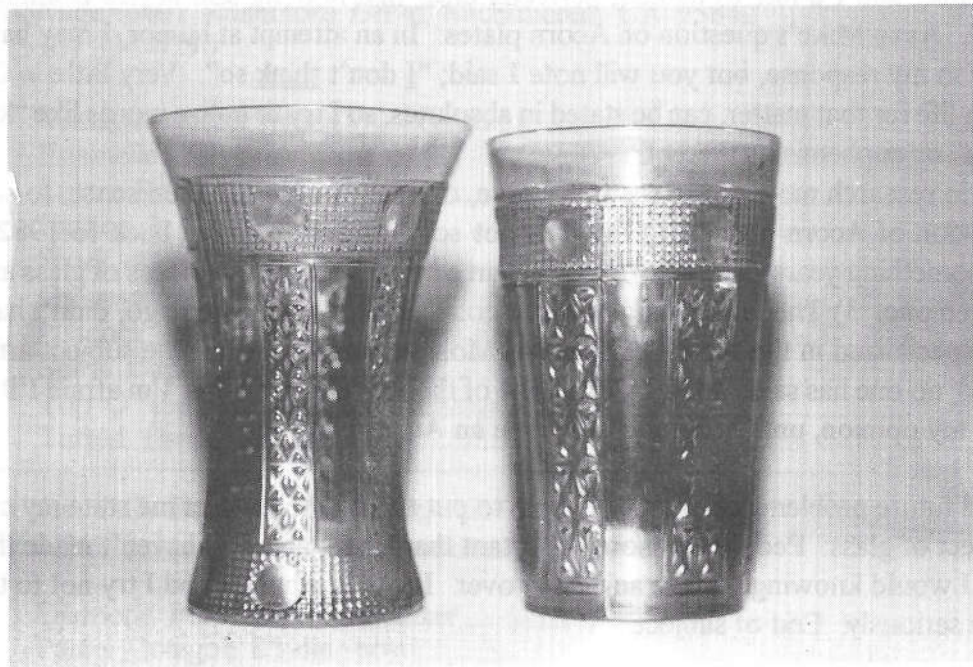

Mr. Carwile differs with me on that, as is his right. I feel that differences of opinion, such as this, on any topic, are a part of the spice of life. I have no axe to grind with Mr. Edwards or Mr. Carwile, and I'd like to make it perfectly clear that nothing said in this column is ever personal. As to Mike's question on Acorn plates: In an attempt at humor, I may have been a bit flip in my response, but you will note I said; "I don't think so". Very little in Carnival Glass, or life for that matter, can be stated in absolutes, so I try to utilize words like "known", "opinion" or euphemisms thereof.

I really do research most of the answers I give, or apply a little common sense; to wit, with the question of Acorn plates: 1) One has not sold at auction dating back to 1982. 2) In twenty something years, I've viewed more than a hundred thousand pieces of glass and have never seen one. 3) The Ed & Marge Garner collection, of some years ago, didn't have one, and Ed specialized in the Acorn pattern. 4) Most importantly, since the subject article has appeared, no one has said; "Hey, I've got one of those". Given all this, I'm afraid I'll have to stick by my opinion, until someone hands me an Acorn plate.

To avoid future problems of this nature, and to put this one to rest, let me state my credo on the subject of glass: People are more important than glass, and they haven't made the piece yet that I would knowingly make an enemy over. It's only a hobby, and I try not to take any of it too seriously. End of subject.

EDUCATIONAL TUMBLER SERIES

By John & Lucile Britt

EMBROIDERED PANELS TUMBLERS

The regular Embroidered Panels tumbler is illustrated on the right. A variation of this pattern is shown on the tumbler on the left. The regular Embroidered Panels tumbler is 4½" tall and 2 ¾" across the top. The base is 2 ⅛" in diameter. The underside of the vase is slightly depressed and is plain. There are six pretty embroidered type panels spaced evenly around the tumbler. These are alternated with six smooth panels which gives the tumbler a pleasing effect. Near the top of the tumbler is a ¾" wide band that is made up of many tiny squares. In this band are six evenly spaced circles. These are placed just above the embroidered panels. A plain ⅝" wide area is found at the top of the tumbler and a smaller smooth area appears at the bottom.

The tumbler on the left with the variations is somewhat different in shape and pattern make up. Notice that it flares out at both the top and bottom instead of the straight up sides that is used on the regular tumbler. Also note that this example has a band at both the top and bottom of the tumbler instead of the single band that is used on the regular Embroidered Panels tumbler. The panels are slightly narrower on the variant and the design inside the panels is more dainty. This variation tumbler is also slightly taller, but the designs used are essentially the same on both tumblers.

The Embroidered Panels tumblers are a part of a group of carnival glass tumblers that came to the United States via Australia. They were not made in Australia, but are brought into that country from India. Some of the other tumblers that are more well known in this group are Beaded Spears, Muscadine, Mirror and Crossbars, Vineyard Harvest, Beaded Panels and Grapes, Mirrored Peacocks and Banded Moon and Stars. We have written articles on all of these patterns, but there are still some other patterns that have showed up in Australia that have not been featured as yet. We have always thought that this group of tumblers were made in Czechoslovakia, but this has not been proven as yet. More research needs to be made on this group of tumblers. Cecil Whitley, author and collector from Houston, Texas, has one of these tumblers that came from Australia that she calls Australian Daisy. We will try to cover that tumbler in the next issue of the HOACGA bulletin.

The Embroidered Panels tumblers that are featured in this article belong to Bob Smith of Boston, Massachusetts. He sent them to us to photograph and view. He had them marked as "Embroidered Panels" and states that they were very rare. We think that this name fits the pattern very well.

ON THE AUCTION TRAIL WITH CHUCK

By Chuck Kremer

May 10, 1996: Woody Auction at St. Louis, Missouri. There was a wide variety of glass and a wide variance in quality. The top-end pieces were generally good and the "Heavy Hitters" were there to pick them off. A few examples were electric blue Poppy Show plate ($3,000), ice blue G & C Hatpin Holder on a mail bid of $2,100, purple Garden Path chop plate ($5,000), Regal Iris Gone with the Wind lamp in caramel color at $8,100, and blue Diamond Points basket on a $2,000 mail bid.

I saw some good buys such as a good marigold Inverted Strawberry powder jar ($90), a marigold Fisherman's mug ($130), a super pretty purple Diamond Lace pitcher and two tumblers at $300, and a great purple stippled G & C powder jar at $325.

In my opinion, there was too much damage and epoxy to call this an overall great auction. A few misidentified items were bargains to a dealer or two.

May 23-26, 1996: Keystone Convention at Brookville, PA. Move this convention into the "BIG" category -- 110 rooms had carnival people and their glass. There were many new faces in the crowd and they seem to be enjoying the relaxed atmosphere. I believe a lot of glass in all categories changed hands. There were some nice displays that included some interesting pieces. One serious collector had an AO Peacock at the Fountain punch set and another had the first Northwood sapphire blue Peacock on the Fence plate I had seen.

Burns Auction Service sold glass from the Jerry Rissmiller collection in the auction in conjunction with the convention. The auction went smoothly with good glass that sold very well. A few pieces that caught my eye included the emerald green Imperial Grape wine ($280), aqua-teal Three Fruits plate ($3500), purple Butterfly & Tulip large footed square bowl ($2000), super electric blue Good Luck plate ($4500), the first amber Orange Tree ruffled bowl sold in years at $190, amber signed Homestead Nu Art chop plate ($2800), green Homestead chop plate at $2700, the smoke signed Homestead chop plate ($1800), smoke 8 3/4" odd-sized Imperial Heavy Grape plate ($425), aqua eight sided Bushel Basket ($2500) and the emerald green G & C hatpin holder at $400.

Researcher Claudia Minick had some interesting Dugan memorabilia on display. Included was glass shards from the site diggings, newspaper articles, old ledgers, employee time records and several old Dugan production items.

June 1, 1996: I traveled to Boonville, Missouri, where Mickey Reichel sold glass from the Floyd and Theresa Wright collection. My goal was to buy the white Orange Tree butter. It far exceeded my expectation -- and the price was more than right too. Now the challenge is to find the other three pieces of the set.

A few things were different at this auction. This was the first time I had seen the new look at the auction center -- Mickey had new and more comfortable chairs. Also he had dropped the 5 percent handling charge on mail bids, and it apparently made a whale of a difference. Mickey said he had stacks of mail bids and they surely contributed to the outcome of the sale. I believe about 40 items went to the mail bidders.

Mickey and the owners considered the sale a success, but I left thinking it was a little soft in spots. There were no multi-thousand dollar items, but many nice and desirable pieces. More dealers should have been there.

June 7-8, 1996: Again, Burns Auction Service brought a top notch auction to the Lincoln Land Convention at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Bill and Betty Mason had arrived at the time when they thought it was in their best interest to disperse their collection. They had bought top quality pieces and it was a pleasure for me to view the glass, bid on a few items and in general be a part of a very good sale.

Bill and I had locked horns over a green Springtime table set several years ago and Bill won. This time Bill won again -- at $3,500 he little more than doubled his money and had the last laugh again. I didn't buy the set, but it went to a good home. To me the top rarity was the blue master Grape & Cable punch set that topped the sale at $11,000. I am sure Bill and Betty were disappointed in a few prices, but in between were some pleasant surprises. There must have been 40 or more four digit prices.

The Midway Motor Lodge is a nice location for a sale and the auction team had everything in order. The Friday night session might have struggled a time or two, but the Saturday session rolled right along. It was a well conducted sale. This is another example where good quality and desirable glass was easy to sell and was well received.

PICTORIAL PATTERN PARADE

By John & Lucile Britt

POINSETTIA & LATTICE BOWL IN AQUA OPALESCENT

Beginning with the early years of our collecting carnival glass, the "Poinsettia and Lattice" has been one of our favorite patterns. So we were indeed thrilled and happy to find this rare and beautiful aqua opal example at the Florida carnival glass convention at Lakeland, Florida in 1986. This was our first opportunity to buy one in aqua opal, so it didn't take long to decide to purchase it. The dealer told us that he had just found this piece in the state of Georgia. This was only the second example that we had ever seen in aqua opal. The other one was in the Harold and Virginia Ludeman collection. That example is shown in color in the Northwood book, "The Wheeling years 1901-1925" on page 115.

The featured aqua opal example that is shown above is the same bowl that is illustrated in Carl Burns Northwood Carnival Glass book on page 111. Carl reports that there are only three or four of these known in that color and lists them as extremely rare. After enjoying this beautiful bowl for a while, we later sold it to Rick Kojis of West Allis, Wisconsin at one of the carnival glass conventions. We are not sure, but we suspect that they still have it in their collection.

The first Poinsettia and Lattice bowl that we ever owned was purchased when we were just getting started collecting carnival glass back in 1969. Someone at an antique show had told us that a lady in Halstead, Kansas had 2 dark carnival glass bowls that she would sell. We lost no time in looking her up. Sure enough, she had two purple carnival glass bowls. One was a Grape and Cable and the other was a Poinsettia and Lattice. They were priced at $30.00 each, so we bought them both. Even though we knew very little about values back then, we never could figure out why the Poinsettia and lattice bowl was priced the same as the Grape and Cable, because it sure looked a lot prettier to us. Anyway, we were very happy with the purchases and from then on we were looking for Poinsettia & Lattice bowls.

Even though we have never seen one of these bowls signed, you can be assured that they were definitely made by Northwood. In our opinion, they are certainly one of Harry Northwood's finest creations. We believe that we have seen more of these bowls in amethyst and cobalt blue than any of the other colors. A cobalt blue example, however, with electric blue iridescence, is absolutely fantastic and would be a bright star in any collection. Marigold examples are harder to find, but they too are super pieces of carnival glass. We have seen only two examples in white and the ice blue bowls are considered rare. As yet, we have never seen an ice green or green example of this pattern, but it is possible that one might exist out there somewhere. At the present time, we are enjoying our beautiful ice blue Poinsettia and Lattice bowl.

THE COMPUTER AND ME

By Richard Cinclair

I think the computer is here to stay and I want to help introduce some of you to a new service regarding Carnival Glass. All of us have experienced the new language of computer "talk". Words like the "Web", internet, cyberspace etc. are bantered about as if we all understand them or as if we should. Fred Stone and Brian Pittman, HOACGA members from the Topeka area, have created a homepage devoted to the collection of old Carnival Glass. As of a few minutes ago (6-21-96), 2393 visits to their homepage have occurred since its inception on February 24th of this year. You may select to view books, clubs and activities, a gallery, for sale glass, wanted glass, a daily discussion group and more. It does NOT cost a penny to visit the home page.

Here is how to find the home page. First you must get to Internet or the World Wide Web (the same thing). Once you are there in the location box, you can simply type in <http://Zeus.Kspress.com/woodslnd/main/htm> which will get you their homepage. It is called Woodslnd. You may also do a search on any search engine like "Yahoo" by searching for Carnival Glass. You will be surprised what you find. I talk with people weekly in Australia, Europe and, of course, all over the US. One of the exciting things is that many of the respondents from the WWW are young, new, and excited collectors. Lots of questions are being asked and lots of knowledge is being shared.

Some of you are now thinking that you have enough to do without getting into this computer "stuff". That is how I felt when a former boss asked me to first learn how to use the computer. When I asked how often I would use Lotus 1,2,3 he told me once a year at budget times. I folded my arms and became a passive aggressive. I did not learn. Eventually, I learned a moron's version of word processing. I had told Carol it would take a program that anyone could do before I would waste my time. The computer should not be more work. It should work for you. I remained barely an active user until I decided to list our Carnival collection and my "for sale" glass on the computer. Bingo! I had a reason.

I haven't the foggiest how a computer really works. There is no way billions of pieces of information can really be on those tiny chips, but then, I don't understand the telephone either. Using the WWW or Internet is only going to get bigger. As an ad on TV says, you can either get on or move out of the way. Soon we may get the club bulletins by computer and then there wouldn't be any complaints about getting the for sale list after everyone else. If you have questions, give me a call.

Am I hooked? Yes! This is fun. Thanks to Fred and Brian and watch for what is coming next.

JULY, 1996 REGULAR HOACGA MONTHLY MEETING

The next regular meeting of the Heart of America Carnival Glass Association will be on Sunday, July 28, 1996 at 2:00 P.M. at the Raytown, Missouri City Hall. We will discuss Red, White, and Blue glass. Do your patriotic duty and show up - please.

The June 23 meeting was well attended. We discussed Dugan glass with 31 examples reviewed by President Grissom. Daryl Strohm won the door prize, a marigold footed sauce in Lotus and Grape. Imogene Grissom baked a delicious Strawberry cake and Ed Kramer brought brownies for the coffee break. We always have a great time at these afternoon meetings. Twenty members attended.

Ed Kramer, Secretary HOACGA

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear HOACGA,

Enclosed is our check for 96/97 memberships. Thanks to all concerned for another year of great reading. We enjoy it all. Please continue to publish the results of auctions. They are helpful in determining realistic prices.

Dear HOACGA,

Please renew membership for myself in HOACGA. It is a delight to receive the bulletin each month, and I've learned a lot from it.

Phil Prince,

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear HOACGA,

Gladys Hutchison recently had the misfortune to fall in her home and suffered a broken hip. She will miss the sales and shows for some time, as well as miss seeing good friends. I'm sure a shower of cards would be a great help and would give her something to look forward to. Her address is: Gladys Hutchison, Rt. 1, Box 259A, Stockton, MO 65785.

Jackie, thank you for helping us give Gladys a surprise in her favorite magazine. If there's a charge for this, I'll gladly remit. I am a collector of Carnival also, but certainly not up to Gladys's or Robert's collection. She is my husband's only living sibling (?) out of the 12 born. I'm sure she won't mind my telling she will be 88 in August.

Winnie Spurlock
Jefferson City, MO

Dear HOACGA,

A rather belated "thank you" note from us - it has taken this long to get over our visit to the States!

We would like to express our sincere thanks to the Committee for arranging such an excellent convention.

There were so many highlights! We would dearly love to hire the gentleman from Fenton who gave such an amusing and educational talk on moulds for our forthcoming C.G.S. Week-End in August - but unfortunately the expense of him plus his moulds would be rather beyond the budget of the C.G.S.!

The auction was quite an experience (no, unfortunately we did not manage to buy anything - perhaps another time!).

The visit to Bob and Imogene Grissoms and Cliff and Jo Anne Balls Open Houses were an added bonus - a very hospitable gesture.

Our thanks to everyone we met for making us so welcome - we enjoyed all the charring, and yes, we did eventually get to Branson (via numerous stops en route at the numerous antique/flea markets). Branson was great fun and we packed quite a lot of show/sight seeing into our three days.

On the return we stopped at St. Charles - Unfortunately the River Boat kept the money we gambled!

We would welcome a visit from any of your members who do get to London to our very small home - and modest collection of Carnival Glass - the search for which keeps us travelling! So it only remains for us to say once again, Thank You.

Sincerely,
Phyllis & Don Atkinson

CORRESPONDENCE

Editors's note: This correspondence was received at convention time but because of space limitations we were not able to print it earlier.

Dear HOACGA

I am sending my dues for HOACGA membership renewal. Will miss not being able to attend the convention this year, but my wife has had a couple of light strokes and requires some one being with her almost 24 Hrs a day. This would have been our eighteenth cosecutive convention. Perhaps next year we can start on a new series.

Best regards

Harold Cox. Ft Wayne, IN.

Dear HOACGA

I notice my HOACGA dues are due so getting it in before you go to the convention because I know you'll be extra busy for that. Sure looks like a good one and the auctions look especially good. Just wish I could be there to see it and enjoy the convention. Our winter has been a long and bad one - Hope it's about over but expect frost yet maybe even light snow flurries.

It would be great to see the Ball & Grissom Collection too, hope to read all about it in next newsletter.

Sincerely

Hi HOACGA

Sure doesn't seem like a whole year has passed. Last year this time we had over 5' of snow in our yard - this year less than a foot - most of the streets are clear and dry. Was certainly a mild winter here. Now it's convention time again and sorry to say we will not be coming "outside" to join all of you nice people at convention. Sure will be thinking of all of you.

Omar & Verginia Bresland
Anchorage, AK.

SOME SAD NEWS

We are sorry to report the loss of several HOACGA members. We extend our sympathy to all the families suffering losses.

Marilyn Nelson passed away May 4, 1996 from complications during heart surgery. She was a HOACGA member since 1979. Her husband is Leland Nelson, 872 Halloran Rd., Bow, WA 98232.

James Helm passed away May 29, 1996 after a year long battle with cancer. He often attended the convention and had reservations for this year. His daughter Jennifer Helm will continue his membership. His wife is Darlene Helm, 1653 W. Gateway Cir., Fargo, ND 58103.

1997 HOACGA CONVENTION

The Heart of America Carnival Glass Association continually strives to provide a quality convention. The facility must be functional, and provide a complimentary setting for the display, showing, and selling of the glass. In addition, it should have an attractive, pleasing, and relaxing atmosphere for those in attendance.

In keeping with these objectives, we are pleased to announce that the 1997 HOACGA Convention will be held at the Embassy Suites Hotel near the Kansas City International Airport. This is an outstanding facility which can accommodate the convention and all of its activities. In order to acquire the Embassy Suites for the 1997 convention, the dates have to be changed by one week later than normal. THE DATES FOR THE 1997 CONVENTION WILL BE MAY 1, 2, 3, AND 4, 1997.

We are very pleased and excited about the facilities for the 1997 convention. When you see it, we are sure you will be in full agreement. Plans are being finalized for another successful convention. More detailed information will be provided in later bulletins.

Bob Grissom, President HOACGA
