Optic and Button

By Alan and Lorraine Pickup

Imperial's Optic and Buttons comes in a variety of shapes and the carnival colors that are usually seen are marigold or clambroth. Some smoke plates are also known. This pattern was Imperial #582 and the lion's share of this pattern was produced in crystal glass. Carl Burns' "Imperial Carnival Glass" book states that this was made in 28 different shapes, with 14 shapes made in carnival colors. Over the years the only other shape we have owned was a marigold rose bowl.

This petite marigold pedestal open salt or nut cup could be collected as a miniature and is considered quite rare. The size from the extreme points of the handles only measure 3 ½" and it stands about 2 ½" tall. This is a rather delicate item and we would guess that they were easily broken with use. This is signed with the old Imperial Iron Cross mark and that adds to the appeal of this piece.

Dave Doty's book "A Field Guide to Carnival Glass" lists this at $600 to $700. It is interesting to note that the suggested price in Carl Burns' Imperial Glass Book lists this at $150. Regardless of the wide price differential, these are very seldom seen and after studying the past auction prices realized books going back to 1983 the only reference we can find of one being sold at auction was a nut cup that was sold in a Gary Cooper auction in Michigan back in April of 1989. The price reported was only $125. Was it a real bargain, was there something wrong with it, or is this just a more realistic price? Our example was purchased some time back from the John and Lucile Britt estate. And we plan on caring for this cute little rarity for some years to come, we hope.

Brazier Candies

By Dean & Diane Fry

This particular design was admittedly a failure in research when John Resnik attempted to locate its placement. He contacted the National Confectioners Association and they were only able to offer an educated "guess" that it probably had been located in the Western Great Lakes Region, since that was a hotbed of candy manufacturing in the early 1900's. The NCA does not maintain historical records.

Having discussed Advertising items with Bob Williams of South Dakota, at different times over the years, we were delighted with a phone call from him on Oct. 6, 1997, telling us that he had just returned home from business interests in Helena, MT where he was able to discover from examining some historical records, that Brazier's Candies had been located there!

Maker was Fenton, has the Wide panel exterior pattern, and is available in ruffled and IC shape bowls, which can be termed scarce. The handgrip plates are also scarce, with the flat plates considered VERY SCARCE!

Bart and Sue Dooley collected some extremely desirable items over a period of many years together, attending numerous auctions, etc. We were able to purchase this plate from Bart in January of 2001 and thanked him heartily for allowing us the pleasure. This is one of the patterns which virtually NEVER appears at public sale!

This is a great place to state that were it not for the personal associations developed during nearly thirty years of collecting Carnival Glass, the Glass itself would have little value!

The Elephants went in two by two

The Eleventh in a Series on Non-USA Carnival

By Glen & Stephen Thistlewood

The Elephant Vase

In this article, we're going to leave the west behind and take a journey to India. Glass making in India is concentrated in and around the city of Firozabad, and back in the 1930s and 1940s iridized luster glass (yes, Carnival) was first made there by the Jain Glass Works (P) Ltd.

One of the items made by them was the exotic and rather mysterious Elephant vase. We know that Jain was the manufacturer because on a number of examples, the word JAIN is press moulded into the pattern. The vase is shaped as an elephant's head, on its side. The trunk is pointing upwards, wrapping around the vase. Below the trunk are two large ears; above the tiny eyes is a headdress, with detail that gives the appearance of braiding around the edge. In the center part of the headdress is usually a swastika and the word JAIN, and sometimes the letters CB.

The letters JAIN can just be made out

The elephant is considered to be a symbol of good luck in India. The origins of this can be found in the Hindu religion of India. There, the god Ganesh, the elephant-headed son of Shiva and Parvati, is worshipped as an auspicious figure. Ganesh has his own iconography in India, and his best-known symbol is the swastika, (which was also popular as a good luck symbol in the west, at least until the Nazis corrupted its referential connotations). Undoubtedly, the Elephant vase with its swastika motif was created to be a bringer of good fortune to those who had it in their home. The swastika motif was also adopted by the Jain company on their letterhead.

The Elephant vase first came to the notice of Carnival collectors in the west some years back—at the time they were considered very rare indeed. A pair were discovered in Ohio in the early 1990s, one turned up in the UK in the mid 1990s. Prices at the time were high. In the past few years, however, as tourism and the internet both boomed, many more examples of Indian Carnival have appeared on the market.

The Elephants went in two by two continued...

The Elephants certainly go in TWOs. There are two broad sizes of the Elephant vase, there are two major pattern variations and there are two trademarks known (i.e. lettering). The two broad sizes are around 9" and around 7" - there are variations either side of that. There are also two broad styles of base: the larger vase has two or three narrow rings around the base, while the smaller size has larger, melon rib type steps.

Two different sizes, and two different ways to wind the trunk!

The two major pattern variations focus on the trunks of the elephants. One style winds to the right, the other to the left. There are many other subtle variations to the pattern, differences in proportion, detailing on the headdress and so on. There are also differences in the ruffling - some have 9 ruffles while others have 8 (some may quite possibly have 7 or 10). It's worth remembering too, that Indian Carnival glass had neither high quality control nor high standards of manufacture. The variations listed above are probably only some of the ones that exist - very likely there are many others yet to be found.

The two trademarks known are rather interesting. Below the swastika on most examples of the Elephant vase, are the letters JAIN. However, on some examples, the letters CB can be found. We are not yet certain what these letters stand for - another factory, a line made for a specific outlet, or something else?

The letters CB and the swastika are fairly clear

The run of TWOs stops when we get to color, for so far, there is only ONE Carnival color known - marigold. The quality varies from weak, poorly iridized examples, to rich, pumpkin marigold that glows with emerald green, turquoise and rose highlights. Other finishes are known, but they are not Carnival. We own a royal blue Elephant vase, but sadly the coloring is just a shiny metallic looking coating that can be peeled off, like foil. The glass underneath is clear. We also own a silver Elephant vase, made in the same way. We've also seen brilliant metallic green and yellow examples.

So, that's the story of the Elephant vase. If you own one, be lucky. Better still, own two!

On the Carnival Beat with Paula & Pete

By Pete & Paula Bingham

Blue Millersburg Multi Fruits and Flowers Punch Bowl

When Paula and I first got together we lived near what was the heart of glass production (especially carnival glass) in the USA. Our first month together was in the Huntington, WV area and we spent the rest of the year in Mansfield, Ohio. After getting involved in Carnival Glass collecting, we've often wished we could have known about it then and been able to search for and acquire some of the treasures and bargains people were finding in that area 25 years ago. We thought how collectors that grew up in those areas have had such an advantage over us and it's something we often discuss when we meet new friends from those places.

Anticipating a grand story of the "good old days" we got quite a surprise when the subject came up with John and Rae Ann Calai. These high school sweethearts grew up in New Philadelphia, Ohio and moved to Millersburg thirty years ago! Having lived there all their lives we expected to hear stories about relatives who worked at the plant or maybe even about when George Loescher came knocking on mom's door and talked her out of that chop plate that turned out to be a "one of a kind" It turns out they're just like us! They didn't have a clue about carnival glass for a real long time. John relates the story of helping to prepare for a neighbor's estate sale and moving a old cabinet style record player and hearing something rattling inside. Closer examination revealed a blue vase and a couple of bowls. A couple days later a friend stopped by and after seeing the blue vase he offered $500 for it. John says that seemed like a lot of money so maybe he had better do some research and find out what it was really worth!

Armed with extensive knowledge of the vase (Some one told him it was carnival glass) John found out that Tom Burns was having an auction in New Philadelphia in a few weeks so when John got the chance he quizzed Tom about it and found out that it was a Blue Millersburg Flute Vase (the second one found) and if he wanted to sell it, it could go into the auction at Hagerstown in the fall. Needless to say, John's neighbor was amazed to get $2550 for a vase she didn't even realize she had.

More important though, during the auction, a new carnival glass collector was born! Early in the sale, a beautiful amethyst Ohio Star vase screamed out John's name and he had to buy it...$1400 is a lot of money for your first carnival purchase. The next sale item was a crystal set of Ohio Star salt & pepper shakers...Rae Ann had to have them. It's apparent who's boss at the Calai home because there's a huge Millersburg crystal collection there! A lot of very nice carnival, too, but the bulk of their collection is crystal. You can see a number of their pieces in the new Bill Edwards and Mike Carwile's Millersburg Crystal Book.

John and Rae Ann have given a huge amount of time and effort to the Victorian House Museum in Millersburg and they presently have on loan more than 135 pieces from their collection displayed there. Most folks know John as the guy who dug up all of those shards at the old glass factory before the dump was permanently covered by new construction. This was really a labor of love...can you imagine digging fox holes in a field filled with nothing but broken glass. John wore out lots of gloves and spent time between weekends letting the cuts heal. To quote Marie McGee, "In recent years John did more for the history of Millersburg glass than anyone I can think of. Those shards have proved and disproved so many theories about who was responsible for making some of the undocumented patterns." If he hadn't dug them up when he did, that knowledge would have been lost forever. As we have gotten to know this couple better we find that besides just being really sweet and good friends, John and Rosie (his nickname for her) love this glass as much as any collectors we know. The time spent messing with glass has added a lot to their lives and now the work and exposure is starting to pay some dividends. For example, in August, John got a call to see if he would be interested in buying a Carnival Punch Bowl. Imagine the thrill of going into someone's home and unwrapping a Blue Multi Fruits & Flowers Tulip Top Punch Bowl. WOW! John told me that the first few nights they owned it, he would wake up at night and go downstairs to check and make sure he wasn't dreaming.

We are proud to have them as friends and thrilled for them to be able to add this treasure to their collection.

November 2002 Meeting of HOACGA

By Ed Kramer

The next regular meeting of HOACGA will be held on Sunday, November 24, 2002, at 2:00 pm at the Prairie Village Community Center, 7700 Mission Road, Prairie Village, Kansas. We will discuss patterns with birds of any kind in honor of turkey month. So dust off your peacocks, storks, woodpeckers and "chicken bowls".

THERE WILL BE NO OCTOBER MEETING

The November meeting will be the last monthly meeting of the year.

At the September meeting there was an even smaller than usual attendance due to some travel and schedule conflicts. As it has been discussed many times before, attendance at the monthly meetings has been low. A motion was made and unanimously approved to have meetings EVERY OTHER MONTH at the present location beginning with the November 2002 meeting.

Meetings for 2003 will be Jan. 26, March 23, May 25, July 27, Sept. 28, and Nov. 23. There is traditionally no meeting in December and the annual meeting is set by our bylaws to be on the 4th Friday of April (convention week).

There will be a Christmas party this year at Bob Grissom's home on December 7, 2002, at 6 pm.

After a break for coffee and brownies, twenty pieces of carnival glass in unusual colors were discussed by their owners.

Ed Kramer won the door prize, a HOACGA souvenir corn vase (1982) with copper painted horseshoes and rims.

SPECIAL DISPLAY 2003 HOACGA CONVENTION

By Bob Grissom

We have all heard the term "Iridescence is the Essence"---- a special display featuring pieces with "BEAUTIFUL IRIDESCENCE" is being planned for the 2003 HOACGA convention. John Muehlbauer will be the speaker for the program and describe all of the "BEAUTIFUL IRIDESCENCE".

At one of our local meetings we ask the members to bring pieces with beautiful iridescence, it was very interesting and educational. We believe this will be a very educational program and give each of us a little better understanding of iridescence.

We have the subject for the display and the expert to tell us about iridescence, now your help is needed. I know that each of us have pieces with beautiful iridescence. Would you select about 5 pieces from your collection that you would be willing to bring for this special educational program. This is not a about rarities, patterns, special colors, or shapes, it is about pieces with "BEAUTIFUL IRIDESCENCE".

I would appreciate it if you will select some pieces from your collection and then send me a list. Please identify them by pattern, color, and shape, i.e. bowl, plate, compote, etc. I need the list in order to make an identification tag for each piece.

A prize of $100.00 will be given to the owner of the piece with the best "BEAUTIFUL IRIDESCENCE". The members in attendance will be given the opportunity to vote to determine the piece with the most "BEAUTIFUL IRIDESCENCE".

THIS IS A PROGRAM THAT EVERYONE CAN BE A PART OF.

LOOKING BACK

By Charles Mochel

Following is the report of an Auction held in 1984. O. Joe Olson felt that Carnival Glass was experiencing some weakness then.

Look at the prices, some are close to what they are now. Others, like the Blue Greek Key Plate were very cheap compared to prices they bring today. This is a good example of collectors not knowing how rare some pieces truly were.

It was rumored there were some 100 plus Diamond Lace Water sets stored in chicken coops when Auctioneer Roan went to get the glass. However, this was never confirmed.

O. Joe went on to expound on his feelings and thoughts regarding Carnival Glass Organizations. Some of what he said I believe we could still take to heart today.

Eastern Auction Sparkles

Eighteen Diamond Lace Water Sets Among 750 Pieces of Carnival Sold at McEwensville, PA, a Small Town Hidden in the Appalachian Mountains.

By O. Joe Olson

THE BEST NEWS in carnival glass came last month from McEwensville, a town of 300 population, located in the Appalachian mountains of East-Central PA.

In this remote village, with only moderate advertising, Frank Roan, the 3rd, made carnival history selling 750 pieces of average good carnival at prices slightly higher than those realized at earlier auctions held this year in metropolitan mid-west cities.

Counter to Many Ideas

Ignoring nearly all the accepted rules for holding a "successful" major carnival auction, Roan offered few rarities and many ordinary items in quantity.

Scores of dealers from Eastern States attended, including John Roller of Pearisburg, VA, each hoping to buy for resale. They were amazed at the enthusiasm of bidders and the prices realized, and in most cases the dealers returned home empty handed.

Despite the fact that McEwensville is so small it is not shown on some maps, more than 200 collectors and dealers found their way there apparently drawn by the possibility of buying carnival well below the current market prices. There were about 100 persons bidding.

The sale was most unusual in that it featured 18 amethyst Diamond Lace water sets and at least 50 identical large marigold footed bowls in the Imperial Luster Rose pattern.

The 12 best Diamond Lace water sets brought from $350 to $400 each. (The Diamond Lace water set at the John Woody auction in Indianapolis on June 7 brought $325.) Some pitchers with fewer than six tumblers and some of those chipped brought less. The Luster Rose bowls brought $17.50 to $35 a piece, and were scattered through the auction.

Among the top prices paid were: Northwood Peach water set, white, $1000; Rose and Honeycomb oil lamp, cobalt, $650; Grape/Cable large open compote, amethyst, $525; and Quill purple tumbler, $460.

It seemed that neither Roan nor his auctioneer was very well informed on patterns or current values. Bill Juska of Hyattsville, MD, a new collector, wrote the auction was well organized and the bidders carried the prices up to the proper level without much urging. He said it was "a very knowledgeable carnival auction crowd."

Christ and Ethel Harnish, who drove about 150 miles Northeast from Willow Street, PA, to the auction, felt the auction brought "some outstanding prices." They wrote that "cheaper pieces that usually do not sell well brought high prices" and "the marigold Luster Rose bowls kept selling well to the end."

The auction ran so smoothly that when the first listed 350 lots were nearly finished (500 pieces of carnival), Roan said he had lists printed for an additional 165 lots that he would offer after a brief recess for refreshments. In all, Roan sold about 750 pieces of carnival. Some prices were as follows:

Tells of Unusual Purchase

Frank Roan III, 33 years of age, was catapulted into the national carnival limelight by an unusual happening. Born and reared in Williamsport, PA, about 20 miles North of McEwensville, Frank said he had been active with his father more than 25 years in antiques.

He has had an office and antique auction hall in McEwensville for several years and he buys antiques in the area hauling the goods in a van lettered with his name and the words, "I Buy Antiques."

Last spring, Roan was called on the telephone by Clifford Schwalm, a noted life-long collector residing at Valley View, a small town about 70 miles Southeast of McEwensville. Roan had met Schwalm once and he knew the elderly man had a tremendous accumulation of choice items. Schwalm told Roan that he wanted to sell "right away."

Roan drove right down and after three days of listing and pricing, they agreed on a figure for all of Schwalm's material. Bank financing was arranged. A few days after completion of the transaction, Schwalm died at age 70.

It required eight men working four days to transfer the antiques and glass to McEwensville in 15 van loads.

Roan told the editor of The Carnival Glass Elixir that he estimated the antiques would gross in excess of $250,000. From a friend acquainted with the major transaction, it was learned that Roan paid $190,000 for the goods.

The carnival auction July 12 was Roan's first sale of the Schwalm goods. On Saturday, July 13, he sold furniture and accessories. Several dated chests brought $1000 each and antique rose platters, $750 and $800.

The Schwalm collection was strongest in firearms, dueling pistols, clocks, Civil War drums, furniture, decorated and dated storage chests, spinning wheels, bottles, china, pottery, pewter and rare books. There was also 1,000 pieces of carnival.

Roan estimated it would require about 15 more auctions to dispose of all the goods on hand. He said that if he found a carnival collection with sufficient rarities he might consider selling it in an auction somewhere in the Mid-West. He also was grateful for assistance in notifying collectors in the area about the June 12th sale. (The Editor of Elixir sent special letters to about 40 collectors and dealers.)

One Carnival Society

(O. Joe Olson continues...)

Now that the two 1974 national carnival glass conventions are history, it is a good time to reappraise where we have come in our hobby and to consider the future.

It is evident that after some 15 years of steadily increasing attention and popularity, carnival glass interest appears to have slackened. The carnival ship is not exactly becalmed, but its sails are pretty limp.

No one is breaking down John Woody's door to hold a major carnival glass auction. In fact, no major auction is scheduled at this time for the remainder of 1974.

Sellers got out of the notion earlier this year. Prices bid at three large sales were a disappointment. The Pennsylvania auction reported in this issue (Page 1) gave some hope for a reversal of interest.

Better Organization Needed

While major auctions have done much to stimulate the carnival glass hobby, they are only a small factor in the entire picture. There are more fundamental and important aspects to consider.

As we see it, the national carnival glass associations are floundering. They are not giving the collectors what they need to survive. They are duplicating efforts in the few areas they touch. They are competing for the same collectors as members and contributors.

It is high time for carnival glass collectors and dealers to realize that if carnival is to grow and prosper, that all should join in one national carnival organization.

Such an organization, with perhaps 6,000 happy, enthusiastic dues-paying members would have the resources to get many essential things done.

Such an organization could (and should) have:

1. A paid executive secretary accountable to the officers and directors;
2. A national monthly publication of substance and worth with a paid staff;
3. An ample budget to finance research into many areas of carnival glass and funds to start work on a definitive 1-volume book of carnival patterns.

When carnival glass collectors and dealers are united into one organization, this would provide more than ample resources for every worthwhile endeavor.

A truly national carnival association should sponsor and establish one or more national carnival glass museums.

It should purchase and maintain a national headquarters building for offices, smaller meeting, and possibly, for displays.

It should schedule and promote four to six regional conventions to be held prior to the single national convention.

This proposal is only intended as an outline of a plan for the good of all carnival glass. It is not intended as a reflection on the scores of collectors and dealers who have given a great deal of time to the appreciation and promotion of carnival glass.

We invite other carnival enthusiasts to share their views on this subject.

Surely, carnival collectors are entitled to the most for their money. They should know where every penny of their money is spent. They should have the best.

Anything that is necessary can be accomplished.

We believe that a single, strong and united carnival glass society would solve many problems and confer untold benefits with the proper leadership.

Even if one carnival society is never established, it is a lovely dream.

IMPERIAL WATER PITCHER

By Robert Natali

On one of my many trips to the different antique shops in our area I found this Imperial "Octagon" small water pitcher, in smoke. I have not been able to find any information on it, other than the fact that a smoke tumbler is listed in the Educational Series Book II.

I contacted Tom Mordini and he e-mailed me a reply that he could not find any information either.

The pitcher does not have any marks like the IG Logo that would indicate it to be a reproduction. I am sure that this is indeed an old production piece. I have not seen another in 30 years of collecting.

Editors note: If anyone has any information about this small pitcher please contact Robert Natali, 5514 E. National, Fresno, CA 93727

INFORMATION FOR NEW ROSTER

By Eleanor Mochel

The HOACGA Board is contemplating having a new Roster printed shortly after the first of the year.

Would you please check your bulletin address label and make certain it is correct and also the telephone number and email address that we have for you.

You can email the new information to Ann McMorris or use the membership form in the bulletin and write corrected information in the appropriate spaces. Please mark on the form that it is for roster information and also send it to Ann McMorris, Secretary.

The roster can only be as accurate as our member's cooperate in getting the correct information to us. If you do not want to be in the roster, please notify the Secretary of that also.

Thanks for your help!

HEART OF AMERICA CARNIVAL GLASS ASSOCIATION
BOARD MEETING- SEPTEMBER 25, 2002

The HOACGA Board held their monthly meeting in Lawrence, Kansas on September 25, 2002. Present were President Grissom, Vice President Lacock, Treasurer Ball, Secretary McMorris and Editor Mochel.

Mailing problems with the September newsletter were discussed. Both Bob and Eleanor had been in contact with various post office employees trying to determine why the bulk of the September newsletters mailed on September 12 had not been delivered. At the time of the board meeting, Bob was the only one of the board members who had received his copy.

For the October newsletter, Eleanor noted more articles from members are needed. Order information and forms for materials offered by the club will continue to be included in the bulletin. The postal authorities have agreed to track the October bulletin when it is mailed.

Discussion was held on whether to offer members an option to receive the bulletin first class at an additional cost. Eleanor will check on the possibility of running colored pictures and cost per picture.

Treasurer Cliff Ball reported that all bills are paid and the club has $16,767.00 in the account.

Embassy Suites have provided a copy of the proposed contract for the 2004 and 2005 HOACGA conventions. Bob will negotiate with the hotel on the cutoff date for room reservations and several other areas that we felt needed fine-tuning.

The 2003 Convention planning continued. Stacy Mills, John Muehlbauer and Tom Whitley have been confirmed as convention speakers. The Barton Dooley collection will be auctioned by Jim Seek. The Leonards will be awarded the Britt Award and $1,000 in cash will be raffled again.

The notebook section will include Candlesticks and Spittoons. Bob is working with Fenton Glass on a souvenir.

It was announced the club will be holding a Sunday meeting every other month instead of monthly. The next club meeting will be held in November. The annual Christmas party is scheduled for December 7 at Bob Grissom's home. Discussion on the possibility of publishing a updated roster in 2003.

Adjournment.

Respectfully submitted,
Ann McMorris, Secretary

2002 HOACGA NOTEBOOK INSERT

Candlesticks – 1st Section

By Bob Grissom

You may not have many candlesticks in your collections, but what is your knowledge of the ones you have? Do you know the difference between a Northwood "Colonial," a Fenton "Florentine," or a Vineland "Colonial?"

The HOACGA Notebook section for 2002 will be the first of two sections identifying Candlesticks. Several collectors have candlesticks in their collection, but this is an area of Carnival glass collecting where information is not readily found. This section of the notebook is an attempt to compile them in one place, present as much information as possible, and to show them with a color photograph. Most of these are described in other publications, but you will need several reference books to be able to find them.

Much time has been spent, not only by me, but several other collectors, trying to identify the various pieces. Information such as this is only possible with the help of many members who have supplied photographs and a listing of their candlesticks.

This first section is now available. If you wish to order, please use the order form below:

HOACGA PATTERN NOTEBOOK

The Pattern Notebook was started in 1980, with the first section being on mugs. Each year since, except in 1992, a different section had been added. This information has been compiled and printed to assist the collector in identifying the various pieces of Carnival Glass. Each section identifies the Patterns, Maker, Colors and other pertinent information and shows a color picture of the pattern. There are (10) completed sections with the candlesticks section to be completed next year. There are about 1222 items pictured. Each year a new section will be added to the Notebook.

2002 HOACGA Souvenir Emerald Green Hatpin Holder

The Emerald Green Hatpin Holder is a very beautiful souvenir. When you purchase a Souvenir you get a beautiful piece of Carnival Glass plus you are helping to financially support an organization that is supporting our investment and promoting the hobby that we enjoy. If we, the collectors, do not support our organization, then who will?

Members may order as many of the hatpin holders as they desire. They would make a lovely Christmas gift.

The price of the Souvenir is $50.00 plus $5.00 for shipping. Make checks payable to HOACGA. Hatpin holders will be shipped when your order is received.

SEPTEMBER BULLETIN

By Bob Grissom

I want to apologize for the lateness, or in some cases not even receiving it, of your September bulletin. The bulletin was mailed as bulk mail, starting in May of 2002. For the first three months the bulletins were delivered in a timely manner. Some members experienced problems in receiving your August bulletin, but most of those were on the east coast.

The September bulletin has been a catastrophe. This is October 1 and I am the only one here in the Kansas City area that has received their bulletin. Both Eleanor Mochel and myself have been trying to find out from the Post Office personnel why the bulletins have not been delivered as of this time. But, we cannot find anyone in the Post Office that can give us any information as to why they have not been mailed. They are going to check it out and let us know, which we have not heard from anyone as of this time. No one seems to know what route they take after they are initially mailed. It is very upsetting and frustrating that we cannot find anyone to give us any information as to why they are not delivered or where they may be. We are trying to find someone that we can talk to face to face about this problem.

When the October bulletin is mailed a Postal employee is going to follow the bulletin through the process and make sure it leaves the Kansas City Postal processing center, for the various other destinations, in a timely manner.

We will continue to pursue this situation until it has been resolved and thank you for your patience.

CARNIVAL GLASS AUCTION

September 14, 2002

By Bob Grissom

Ed Kramer and I attended the Mickey Reichel consignment auction on September 14. We actually had to drive in some rain while driving down and also coming back. That was more rare, this summer, than anything in the auction. Approximately 75 people were in attendance with about 50 bidding numbers given out. The auction consisted of very few rarities but many of the pieces had very good iridescence, and the prices reflected this fact. Mickey kept the auction moving along, with about 90 pieces per hour.

The auctioneers keep coming up with new terms to describe the glass. It would be good if they would put out an article describing what the terms mean. For instance; "Frosty Silver Iridescence" ----- "Satin Silver" ----- "Multi Electric" ----- "Radium Multi Electric" ----- "Awesome Electric" ----- "Multi Electric Beauty" ----- "Super Electric" ----- "Multi Electric Dandy" ----- "Splendid".

CORRESPONDENCE

Sept. 11, 2002

Dear American Friends:

Remembering you in our thoughts and prayers today.

May God Bless America.

Doug & Carole Treloar & Family

I especially enjoy the article on "Looking Back." The history of carnival is so interesting to me. Through HOACGA I have been able to add to my collection and fill in pieces I'm missing. Thanks, HOACGA.
